October Book Spotlight Two:

Alien Networks

For as long as human beings have stared at the stars, we've asked the same questions: Are we alone? Is someone out there watching us? The modern UFO era—marked by flying saucers, strange lights in the sky, and government investigations—suggests that we may not be the only intelligence operating on or around Earth. Yet most discussions stop at the ships, the sightings, and the visitors themselves.

But what if we've been looking at the wrong part of the mystery?

Suppose UFOs are not merely vehicles, but tools of communication. Suppose the true story isn't about visitors arriving here, but about Earth already being part of a vast, interstellar information system. A planetary grid of signals—ancient and modern, hidden in plain sight.

This book explores these ideas, concepts, and what it all might mean.
